

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When a predetermined instruction is input by a user through a key input section, a microprocessor detects the input of the predetermined instruction.

5 The microprocessor then renders personal digital assistant (PDA) functions available, turns off an RF switch, and stops power supply to a transmission system of an RF section. Further, the microprocessor controls
10 an LED and/or a sounder to indicate that radio waves are not sent out to the outside.

09746769.122600